H. S. GYMNASIUM MAY BE PROVIDED

MATTER DISCUSSED AT BOARD MEETING LAST NIGHT.

MRS. ZEIGLER EMPLOYED

Will Fill Vacancy Made by Resignation of Mrs. Cora Gehr Lyle—Miss Worst Moved to B-8 Grade.

The providing o fa gymnasium for the high school, of sufficient size to accomodate a regulation size basket ball court for matched games, was an important feature of the discussion at the regular meeting of the public school board last night.

The gymnasium at the High school building is small and only large enough for practice. A place for exhibition games is badly needed and the securing of a down town store room for that purpose was talked of. The matter was left under discussion and no definite action taken last night.

Mrs. L. E. Zeigler was elected to fill the vacancy in the public school teaching force, made by the resignation of Mrs. Cora Gehr Lyle, teacher of the B-8 grade effective at the close of the present semester. Miss Alice Worst, teacher in the B-6 grade will be placed in the grade taught by Mrs. Lyle and Mrs. Zeigler will teach the B-6, formerly taught by Miss Worst.

The members of the mid-year graduating class were officially confirmed by the board and they will complete the course on January 23. The class members are Blanche Masters, Mary Miller, Irene Maxwell, Blanche Hall and Wilson Seiler.

The bills for free text books were allowed last night and routine business occupied the remainder of the session.

DORRANCE HEIRSHIP CASE SETTLED IN ST. PAUL COURT

Story of Interest Here—Mother is Miss Emily Timmons a Former Resident of Maryville.

The following article, taken from today's Kansas City Post will be of interest here. Mrs. Dorrance was formerly Miss Emily Timmons, a resident of Maryville.

"Once more Charles Francis Dorrance 3431 Wyandotte street, comes in to his birthright, a fortune of some $200,000, through process of law.

This time the decision is likely to be final, though an appeal to the United States supreme court still is a possible recourse of the defeated uncles and cousins of the heir.

Tuesday the United States circuit court of appeals, sitting at St. Paul, reversed the decision of Judge John C. Pollock, district judge, and held that Charles Francis Dorrance is the legal son of John Dorrance, wealthy Charlton county cattleman, who died in 1914.

Since 1906 the fortune of John Dorrance in acres of the valuable Charlton county land has been chipped away into smaller and smaller proportions by seemingly endless litigation.

Every kind of accusation and family scandal has been bared in this process. It began with the contest of the divorce proceedings brought by John Dorrance before his death in an attempt to disinherit his wife and son and continued when, after his death, his brothers and nephew brought suit to prove Charles Francis Dorrance a foundling.

In the hearing before Federal Judge John Pollock Mrs. Dorrance, mother of Charles Francis Dorrance, revealed various family skeletons such as an alleged infatuation of her husband for a handsome mulatto woman.

By the decision at St. Paul Tuesday Charles F. Dorrance becomes sole heir to 1,000 acres of land assumes his birthright as son of John Dorrance and grandson of Charles Dorrance, Sr., a wealthy Pennsylvania pioneer. He also comes into possession of valuable holdings in mines in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The Dorrance family in Pennsylvania is an old and established one.

The history of the case goes back to 1880 when John Dorrance, son of Charles Dorrance, Sr., of the aristocratic and exclusive family bearing that name in Pennsylvania, came to Missouri and settled in Charlton county. After several years of "wild" living the father of John purchased 1,000 acres of land for him in Missouri and allowed him to work it.

At the death of the father the land went to his son.

John Dorrance first married Ada Day, a small town belle. A daughter, Stella was born to them. Later Dorrance disappeared and left them to shift for themselves.

The wife obtained a divorce from him in 1887 on the ground of desertion.

Dorrance then was married at Louisville, Ky. to Miss Emily Timmons of St. Louis under the name of J. B. John son. A year after his first wife obtained her divorce he revealed his true name and they were married again by that name in Canada under the Canadian marriage act.

The son Charles Francis Dorrance, was born in 1891.

1906 the family trouble first began. Dorrance obtained a divorce from his wife in St. Louis.

Mrs. Dorrance filed suit to prevent the divorce on the ground she had been imposed upon.

The supreme court set aside the divorce in 1914 and a short time afterward John Dorrance died.

His brothers and a nephew then began the fight to prevent the wife and heir from obtaining any of the fortune. The petition declared Charles Francis Dorrance was taken from a foundling asylum, the St. Anns at St. Louis February 28, 1891.

COUNTRY'S FARMERS PLAN TO HARVEST OWN ICE.

Washington.—To prevent thousand of dollars loss on spoiled dairy products which have occurred annually, farmers over the country are preparing this year to harvest their own ice wherever possible, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The cost of harvesting the ice is negligible, the Department pointed out. The statement said that with proper storage, allowing from forty to fifty cubic feet per ton of ice, and forethought in selecting or preparing a stream for the ice field a plentiful supply can be obtained.

ELECTRIC LIGHT IN COOP KEEPS HENS BUSY.

Waverly, N. Y.—Mrs Shutts, of Chemung, beat her brood of hens to it when they chose these winter mornings to idle away their time by speeling instead of laying eggs. She had a big arc light placed in the roosting coop and another in the coop where they scratch for their "eats". In the darkness of early morning the electric current is turned on. So like the sun of summer morn does the light make the interior of the coop that the hens, instead of taking their usual morning nap, get busy and produce eggs.

DEMOCRAT SHOCK TROOPS GATHER

BATTEL FOR PRESIDENCY BEGINS AT 8 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

COME FROM EVERY CORNER

Democratic Committeemen Ready for First Broadside Speculation Over Presidents Message.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The battle for the next presidency of the United States begins today.

At six o'clock tonight shock troops of the Democrats that have been gathering here for the past week, will mass forward into the trenches of banquet halls and two hours later after iron rations politics have been served and coffee passed around, barrage speeches will open and the campaign be on. The zero hour for broadside shots has been officially set for eight o'clock.

As President Wilson will not official ly disclose his present treaty views until his message is read at the banquet it will mean giving complete indorsement to the position the president may still take as to reservations, even before that exact position is known.

As more and still more Democrats from every corner of the country arrived who declared without equivocation that the Nebraskan was a candidate—not a candidate for party leadership, but for the nomination.

The big surprise of the gathering of the Democratic clans has been the talk of Hoover as the possible Democratic nominee. The Democratic politicians aren't for him, as arule, and make no secret of it.

The McAdoo talk still remained submerged with whisperings as to why his friends werent more active. And, as the crowds grew, the talk of of A. Mitchell Palmer, the attorney general, increased. Unquestionably Palmer is something of the central figure in the Democratic talk that Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood was in the G. O. P. meet, Governor Cox had active friends on hand.

FRANCE GIVES MANY MILLIONS TO NEEDY

BUILD NEW HOMES AND START FAMILIES IN LIFE.

GIVE BUSINESS FIRST AID

Give Advance Assistance in the Purchase of Machinery and Business Equipment.

Lille—In the year that has elapsed since the signing of the armistice which brought to an end the occupation of northern France by the Germans the French Government has spent more than a billion francs (about $200,000,000) in the work of reconstitution of the department of the North. In this department help has been afforded to 181,000 families, enabling them to return to their homes and start life anew. When it is considered that the Department of the North is only one of dozen departments devastated by the invaders, it will be seen that France is bending all her efforts to wiping out as far as possible the physical traces of the German occupation. The department of the North covers 2,228 square miles and had a population of 1,961,780 at the beginning of the war. Outside the department of the Seine, which includes Paris, it was the most populous in France.

M. Naudin, Prefect of the Department of the North today described the work accomplished in the last twelve months by the Service of Reconstitution, which was organized at Lille on October 18, 1918, right after the Germans evacuated the city and began work as soon as the armistice was signed.

"Our first task," said M. Naudin, "was looking after the refugees who had fled from the district before the advancing Germans and desired to return to their homes without delay. The number of transport orders which we have issued up to date—they cover 181,000 families—shows that we have not lost any time.

"In the course of the year, I might say practically all in the last four months, we have paid out more than a billion francs in first aid assistance in advance for the purchase of machinery and indemnities for the destruction of property.

"In December, 1918, I was named president of a central commission comprising eighteen members selected from the leaders of the industrial and commercial world of Lille, women who had devoted themselves to charitable work and members of the hospital commissions. This commission is subdivided into sub commissions, one of which takes care of purchases, while the other studies the best methods of distributing the large sums of money subscribed throughout France for our department.

"Besides money, we have received and given to the needy inhabitants since last January 1,329,720 garments of all kinds. In the distribution of clothing we take into account the population of each district and the extent of devastation. The subprefect of each arrondissement has had charge of the actual distribution and he is assisted in his task by commissions chosen by the municipal councilors, the revictualling commissions and the members of the services of charity of each commune. They have instructions to devote the greater part of the supplies to helping old men and women, widows of soldiers killed in the war and families where there are many needy persons.

"Among the articles distributed as 'first aid' were 78,656 beds which were given to the needy people of 38 communes. We have purchased large quantities of warm stuff for garments for women and young girls as well as under clothing for children. Everything of this kind which remained when the the stocks of the Public Health Service were liquidated has been taken over for this purpose.

"We have organized another kind of help which is called the 'Department of the North Clothing Bureau.' Through this office we supply women with materials which they can use in making their own underwear. A similar bureau has been established at Douai. Our idea is establishing this branch of our arganiation has been to give the people an opportunity to help themselves by their own labor. When, by next spring, the inhabitants of this department, will we hope, have resumed their normal life, this department will look after the needs of new born children and their mothers."

M. Leroy, secretary general of the Reconstitution Commission, gave some more detailed information, regarding the work being pursued in the devastated regions of the north.

"Up to date," said M. Leroy, "We have given practical aid to 632,811 refugees. We have organized a service for the tracing of baggage lost by these poor people on their way back to their villages. We have been able to find thousand of packages lost on trains or at railroad stations.

Fish hooks have been made on exactly the same design for 2,000 years.

Dress in Rhyme.

Skirts are narrow and hips are wide,
evening gowns have no backs nor side;
hats are small and silly and high; on heels like stilts we go tittupping by.
We can't afford a thing to wear, but it costs us more if our backs are bare;
most of the backs are ugly as sin, but you spend a fortune to paint their skin Coats are long, of skunk or sable; if you can't buy one find someone who's able.
Pearls, of course, are quite the thing, but none the best set off by a lighthouse ring.

what would Bayard Taylor say today?

Richer than any valley in the world except the valley of the Nile is the way Bayard Taylor, famous traveler, described the territory surrounding St. Joseph more than half a century ago.

The Nile takes second place today.

The truest reflection of a country's richness is the retail shopping district of its principal buying center.

St. Joseph has no equal among comparable cities in retail shopping facilities. Its enterprising merchants gather the products of the world and lay them before you—the silks of the Orient next to the cotton of our own South, and Brazil's coffee beside bread and meat from the grain and stock you raise.

St. Joseph is a great retail city offering its patrons unexcelled purchasing opportunities—opportunities told you daily in St. Joseph's LEADING retail newspaper.

TIN CANS PAYING WAY TO COLLEGE FOR MANY GIRLS

Canning Club Work Brings True the Educational Dreams as much as rich Uncle.

Tin cans, and plenty of them all filled with fruit and vegetables, are paving the way from country home to college for many a girl these days. In Montgomery county, Miss., lives Effie Ayers, who dreamed of college and who now, by means of her canning club work, sees her way clear to making her dreams come true. Miss Ayers stands ready to affirm that a canning club can help a girl with college ambitions as much as can a rich uncle with generous impulses. For four years this club member has been a member of one of the canning clubs supervised by the United States department of Agriculture and the State agricultural college, and for two years of that time she has been the canning champion of Mississippi. Her net profits from her canning work in 1919 were $280.46.

During the first season of her club work Miss Ayers canned 1,500 No. 3 cans. The second year she canned only 800 cans, because the wilt attacked the tomatoes in her locality, but last year 1,100 No. 3 cans were filled, and brought her a profit of $178. This year she canned 300 No. 3 cans. The fruit, soup mixtures, tomatoes, beans, and other vegetables which she cans are grown in her club garden, and the said tent hacre garden is in a fine state of cultivation. From two rows of beans growing there last summer she canned 198 cans, and sold them for $3.50 a dozen. Besides growing the vegetables for canning, she also supplies the family table from her plot.

This club member shipped all the goods she canned the first two years, but the last two years she has been selling her canned products in the local market where the demand was twice as great as she could supply. Miss Ayers\ exhibit of canning and sewing have won her many prizes in both the county and state fairs, as well as several trips.

Hats and bonnets were first manufactured from braided straw at Dedham, Mass., in the year 1798.

The Ease of the Chalmers Engine Has a Story

Quality First

WHEN you sit behind the wheel of a present day Chalmers you will long remember the rare ease of its engine.

It responds to the slightest call without effort. At high speed you are conscious of no great activity under the bonnet. But you roll along with a certain comfort of mind that is comparable only when you lag along at slow speed and note no "breaking," no "missing," no jerky action—but a quickness, a silence that is smooth and expressive of high efficiency.

There's a story back of this. Most troubles in a car come from vibration. In a Chalmers there is so little vibration as to be negligible.

Its crank shaft and reciprocating parts are balanced to a fraction of an ounce, both static and in motion.

More than this, Hot Spot vaporizes the raw gasoline into a "fog," and Ram's-horn supplies each cylinder with an even "charge."

This provides double insurance against vibration, and generates an ease of action not often found in a motor car.

Once you experience this you, too, will say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.
